Description

Build more brand authority by combining your podcasting efforts with audio and video options as well as a dedicated blog post, then you've covered all the bases to establish yourself as the leader. You'll have your logo in the artwork or if you're creating a video podcast, on the video itself. You'll probably mention your company name in the intro and outro as well and as podcasting isn't really a sales tool, listeners will remember you without feeling like they're being sold to.
